MUSIC UP AND UNDER THROUGHOUT.

WOMAN: Nobody really plans for a sudden illness or injury to strike. But one thing is for sure – when it does, you should have a first plan of action. For me, that's Parkview FirstCare. When my daughter had an allergic reaction to a bee sting this summer, I wanted to go where she'd be taken care of by the Parkview team I know and trust. At FirstCare, we were able to walk right in without an appointment, and a Parkview caregiver helped get her allergic reaction under control in no time. It's a big relief knowing if something unexpected happens – an asthma attack, a sprained ankle, or the first sign of a cold – I can head to one of FirstCare's four Allen County locations any day of the week between 8 and 8. It's the quality care I expect from Parkview, now more convenient than ever.

ANNCR: To find a location near you, or to check wait times, call 877-PPG-TODAY. That's 877-774-8632. FirstCare from Parkview Physicians Group. Get in. Get better. Get going.
