Once a woman trying to get ahead in the world of the elite. Poisoned her husband; when he didn't die, finished the job with dogs. Moved into the streets; sleeps in trash. Feeds rats as if they were pigeons. Vying for control of various thug gangs; wants to unite them, under her.

Granny
Preston?

Granny
Is that you?

Granny
Have you seen my little birdies? The dear things must be starving without their granny. Here, birdies!

Granny
Oh, my my my. I think I have gentleman callers again, but not the way I used to, not the nice kind. Not very polite ones either. Ah well, they'll go away again if they know what's good for them, but what a bother.

Granny
My my, how did you accomplish that? What got into you?

Granny
I suppose you want your birthday gift now? Well it's upstairs, on the vanity. Turn the lights out when you leave. And I do love you, Preston.
