Voice Description: Sejuani is a warrior driven by honor and vision, not bloodlust. Her voice is husky and powerful, but not overly masculine. She inspires leadership with the force and authority in her commands. When Sejuani barks an order even the most hardened of warriors listen. Sejuani lacks any sense of pity or sympathy, if someone cannot overcome what ails them she believes that they deserve to suffer their fate.

Character Bio: While her people starved and died during a brutal winter, Sejuani sought the council of her tribe's seer to learn if she would share the fate of her lost siblings. Instead, the seer predicted that Sejuani would rise to greatness and conquer the Freljord. Driven on by this destiny, Sejuani pushed herself to extremes that molded her into a peerless warrior. When she claimed leadership of her tribe, she hardened her people into a rugged tribe of raiders and battle-hardened warriors. She now marches to war, aiming to unite the Freljord under her rule.
