Voice Description: Jinx has a voice that is both carefree and excitable, but just a little unhinged and twisted. Short on attention span, she seeks never-ending fun and mischief, and utterly despises being bored. (When she isn't having fun, she will teeter on the verge of a tantrum.) She has absolutely no concern for the well-being of others, but is not malicious or cruel – just happy to ignore the consequences of her actions. She lives to mock her foes, and toys with them endlessly.

Video Reference: Note: none of these references is exactly what we want, but they are all in the neighborhood. We like Maria Bamford's ability to do a wide variety of funny voices, but this is not a requirement.

Character Bio: Jinx is a super criminal who leaves a trail of mayhem and panic everywhere she goes. She is responsible for the worst crime wave in the history of Piltover, city of order and progress. Her origins are a mystery, but her trademark is known to all: an explosive arsenal of firearms, including grenades, a minigun, a shock rifle, and a rocket launcher. With these toys, her joy in life is bringing her own kind of volatile excitement to the city she calls the most boring place in the world.
